

Goldhawk CV 18 September 2017

For 48 years, Dale Goldhawk was an award-winning journalist, author and broadcaster in newspapers, television and radio.

Goldhawk is a former investigative reporter for CBC and CTV where he first created his consumer and citizen advocacy show called Goldhawk Fights Back. He has extensive experience in both on location and studio work.

Goldhawk is a recipient of both the Queen's Golden Jubilee Medal and the Queen's Diamond Jubilee Medal.

He is the author of Getting What You Deserve: The Adventures of Goldhawk Fights Back, published by Dundurn.

Goldhawk was nominated by the Canadian Association of Journalists as one of Canada's outstanding investigative journalists in 2001; was a Gemini Award nominee for Best Reporter in 1996; a national Radio Award nominee for Best Broadcaster in 1992; and in 2002, he won an Impressions Award for Best on-air-personality in the Rogers Television Network. In 2005, Dale won a Best Performance award from the Canadian Cable Television Association.

As a Past President of the Alliance of Canadian Cinema, Television and Radio Artists (ACTRA), Goldhawk was awarded the ACTRA President's Award for distinguished service to ACTRA and its members, as well as the Ryerson Union Award in recognition of "his accomplished journalism career and his achievements, leadership and integrity as President of ACTRA."

He is a former President of the Alzheimer Society of Canada and serves as an elected member of the Board of Directors for Alzheimer's Disease International.

Goldhawk is also a member of the Board of Directors at Ontario Shores Centre for Mental Health Sciences.

He has done extensive volunteer work for Easter Seals Ontario and was the recipient of the charity's highest honour, the Yvonne Alexander Award, "recognizing exemplary support in helping children with physical disabilities succeed."

Goldhawk is a recipient of both the Queen's Golden Jubilee Medal and the Queen's Diamond Jubilee Medal.

He is the author of Getting What You Deserve: The Adventures of Goldhawk Fights Back, published by Dundurn.