

Andrew Dale - Bio

Andrew Dale is a multi-instrumentalist, vocalist, composer and actor based in St. John's, Newfoundland and Labrador. He is one third of the award-winning band The Once and has collaborated with a wide array of artists, including Passenger, Amelia Curran and Alan Doyle amongst many others.

A graduate of Memorial University's School of Music, majoring in Vocal Performance, he has spent the last 15 years touring internationally, in addition to working on a variety of recording and creative projects. Andrew also has experience performing lead roles in theatre and musical theatre productions, along with a multitude of music videos.

Off-stage, he has composed music for stage productions (Artistic Fraud of NL's Between Breaths), TV (CBC's Still Standing) and other advertisements. Most recently, he performed on-camera, played the bouzouki and narrated the latest Newfoundland and Labrador Tourism TV ad.